Special Instructions

- If you take medicines for diabetes, your medicines will need to be adjusted for the day before and the day of your enteroscopy. Talk with your diabetes care provider about what to do on these 2 days.
- If you have severe constipation or are taking pain medicine every day:
  - Buy a bottle of Magnesium Citrate at a drugstore.
  - 2 days before your procedure, at 4 p.m., drink the full bottle.

What is an enteroscopy?

You are having a balloon enteroscopy. This test allows your doctor to look at the lining of your large intestine and the last part of your small intestine. This type of enteroscopy, which is done through the lower gastrointestinal tract (retrograde), uses balloons to move a tube through your intestines.

What to Expect

You will receive a sedative (medicine to help you relax) through an intravenous line (IV) placed in your vein. Most patients fall asleep. If you do not fall asleep and feel some discomfort, please tell us. We will do our best to help you be comfortable.

Your doctor will place a flexible tube called an enteroscope into your rectum. The tube is about as wide as a finger. Your doctor may also take biopsies (tissue samples), remove polyps (growths), or treat areas where there may be bleeding. You will not feel any of these procedures.

The enteroscopy takes about 45 minutes. Your appointment may last longer to allow time to prepare and recover.

Afterward, your doctor may talk with you about the results. If your results are not ready right away, we will tell you when you can expect to receive them.
